KEWANNA, INDIANA.

KEWANNA is situated in western Fulton county, Indiana, midway between Rochester and Winamac, east and west, and Lake Maxenkuckee and Logansport, north and south. The town is located in the heart of as fine farming territory as the State of Indiana boasts. It has a population of 700, has fine schools, churches, residences, business blocks, mills, elevators, etc., well kept lawns, good streets, street sprinkling system, local and long distance telephone service, and other modern conveniences.

It is situated at the junction point of the Vandalia and Cincinnati, Richmond and Muncie railways, the former a direct route from South Bend to Saint Louis, the latter from Cincinnati to Chicago.

Kewanna is conceded to be one of the most beautiful towns in the entire State and is the second town of importance in the county. Its people are wide awake, progressive and up to date, and are ever on the alert for those things which tend for the advancement of their home town.

An invitation is hereby extended to the general public to
